New Terminal at Ranchi Airport to Commission Soon

- Parimal Nathwani

Ranchi : July 18, 2012 : The new terminal at Birsa Munda Airport, Ranchi will be opened in next 45 to 60 days. Mr. Parimal Nathwani, the rajya sabha member from the State and a member in the Consultative Committee attached to the Ministry of Civil Aviation informed in a press-release issued to-day. Mr. Nathwani who attended the consultative committee meeting held yesterday at Bangalore had raised long pending issue of new terminal of Ranchi airport during the meeting chaired by the civil aviation minister Mr. Ajit Singh and also attended by Mr. V. P. Agrawal, Chairman of Airport Authority of India.

The civil aviation minister Mr. Ajit Singh assured Mr. Nathwani during the celebrations that the new terminal would be commissioned as early as possible. The make over of the terminal included technical upgrades also for safe landing and take-off facilities. The new terminal is equipped with the advance Instrument Landing Systems (ILS) and Runaway Visual Range (RVR) etc thereby facilitating safe landing and take-off even during odd weather conditions, Mr. Nathwani said and hoped that incidents of diverting flights would be reduced with commissioning of the new terminal. The integration of the new terminal with the existing one would, in turn, help maximizing passenger holding capacity and apron area etc; he hoped.
